“With Ingalls’ Nurse Navigators, you’re never alone in your fight against cancer.”

From diagnosis to resolution, Ingalls Nurse Navigators guide you through one of the most challenging times of your life. Throughout your cancer experience, these specially trained, committed oncology nursing professionals are at your side, every step of the way.

“I can be the central point of contact to help set appointments, answer questions, explain test results, schedule appointments, coordinate treatments or explain test results or medications. I am another set of hands and eyes, involved and supportive.”

“Wow! It is fantastic - and so important - that we have someone guiding us through this difficult time.”

At Ingalls, Our Nurse Navigators...

- Educate you and your loved ones about your individual diagnosis and treatment options.
- Coordinate information and care with your team of doctors and allied health care professionals.
- Participate in weekly cancer conferences with doctors and nurses to discuss and determine the best treatment plan for you.
- Provide resources for genetic counseling and cancer risk evaluations.
- Facilitate support groups and programs and recommend appropriate resources in your community, including those of the Cancer Support Center.
- Teach cancer prevention, screening guidelines, diagnosis, treatment options and the importance of early detection.
- Offer reassurance, support, advocacy and an uplifting hand.

“Being a Nurse Navigator is, to me, everything that nursing is and more. It is very fulfilling being able to be so dedicated to my patients.”

Please call 708.915.HOPE to contact any of our Nurse Navigators for information, support and assistance through your cancer experience, every step of the way.

“Everyone, everywhere, should have a Nurse Navigator.”
